

Bhutan Optical Cable Sales Company

Summary of Content

Aksh OptiFibre Ltd. and Nexband Optifibres are key manufacturers supplying optical fibre cables to Bhutan, with direct sales and turnkey project capabilities.

Key Manufacturers

1. Aksh OptiFibre Ltd. Aksh OptiFibre, established in 1994, is a leading manufacturer of optical fibre and optical fibre cables, producing both the fibre and FRP rods in-house, which reduces costs and ensures quality control. The company has extensive experience in Bhutan, having completed the ADSS optical fibre cable installation for Bhutan Power Corporation Limited, connecting all district headquarters and multiple Gewogs under the National Broadband Master Plan. Aksh offers a range of cables including aerial, duct, armoured, and FTTH drop cables, all compliant with international ITU-T standards. Their direct sales and project execution capabilities make them a reliable supplier for large-scale deployments.

2. Nexband Optifibres Private Limited Nexband Optifibres, based in Bhubaneswar, India, manufactures high-quality optical fibre cables for telecom and cable TV industries, with a strategic focus on supplying Bhutan, Nepal, Bangladesh, and other neighboring countries. They provide end-to-end solutions including network design, cable laying, and testing services, which can be leveraged for direct procurement and turnkey projects. Nexband emphasizes customer-centric solutions and has experience fulfilling international orders, including FTTH cable supply.
