

South Sudan fusion splicing optical cable manufacturer

Summary of Content

Uzalendo and international suppliers like Fujikura and XHFiber provide fusion splicing equipment and optical cables suitable for South Sudan projects.

Key Suppliers and Manufacturers

Uzalendo is a prominent supplier of Fujikura fusion splicers and optical cables in Africa, with operations in the Democratic Republic of Congo and potential service coverage extending to South Sudan . They offer a range of products including fiber optic test and measurement tools, fiber blowing machines, and training services, making them a practical choice for regional network deployment. Fujikura is a global leader in fusion splicing technology, offering benchtop, field, and mass fusion splicers. Their products feature dual-axis camera viewing, automatic arc calibration, and ruggedized designs suitable for harsh environments . AFL distributes Fujikura splicers and provides custom splicing services, advanced training, and maintenance support, which can be valuable for projects in South Sudan . XHFiber is a Chinese manufacturer specializing in fiber fusion splicers, cleavers, OTDRs, and fiber test equipment. Their products are widely used in FTTx installations and maintenance projects across diverse climates and terrains, including outdoor and high-altitude environments . They offer OEM options, technical support, and long-term warranties, making them a reliable international supplier.
