

The UAE uses both round and square toes

Summary of Content

In the UAE, both round and square toe shapes are commonly used in footwear, reflecting global shoe trends rather than a specific regional foot type.

Common Toe Shapes

Round Toes: These toes form a gentle curve, with all toes arching together. Shoes with round toes are popular for casual wear, including sneakers, brogues, and ballet flats, offering comfort and a classic look . Square Toes: Square toes have a boxy shape, with the first three toes often aligned horizontally. This style is favored in modern boots, loafers, and formal shoes, providing extra space for wider feet and a contemporary aesthetic .

Foot Types and Cultural Notes

Foot types such as Roman, Greek, Mongolian, and Egyptian influence shoe fit and comfort, but in the UAE, footwear choices are largely guided by fashion and comfort rather than specific foot anatomy . Open-toed shoes like sandals and flip-flops are widely worn, though modesty norms may influence when and where they are appropriate .

Practical Implications

When shopping for shoes in the UAE, both round and square toe designs are readily available, and selecting the right style depends on personal comfort, foot width, and the intended use—casual, formal, or traditional attire. In summary, the UAE accommodates a variety of toe shapes in footwear, with round and square toes being the most common, reflecting international trends and practical comfort considerations .
